EDINBURGH, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Andrew Carnegie has discovered he has given away another $10,000,000 without knowing it.
When he founded the United Kingdom Trust in July last he announced
he had transferred that amount, held by the United States Trust, to the trust here. After a long consultation with lawyers he learned it was impossible to make the transfer legally.
This morning a fresh disbursement
for the United Kingdom Trust.
Friends believe this trust never would have been created had Mr. Carnegie

"DRIVE OUT HUERTA ONE WAY OR OTHER."

New Dictum of Washington Is Phrased
for the Mexicans.

Situation Is Deemed So Critical that Wilson Will Remain at His Desk Today to Consult With Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee—Gen. Carranza Confident of Recognition by the United States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8.—
Gen. Huerta has shown no indication that he will comply with the American demands for his resignation. On the contrary, those who profess to have his confidence say his programme includes the continued occupancy of the Presidency until some time late in the year 1914, and that he intends to carry out his plan of organizing the new Congress and defying Washington, even to the point of war.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Notwithstanding intimations that provisional President Huerta would refuse to resign, administration
officials said tonight his elimination would be accomplished "one way or another." They asserted every opportunity would be given him to retire peacefully, and that drastic steps would be avoided if possible.
A development of the day was a call sent by President Wilson for members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Republicans as well as Democrats. He had Senators Stone and Swanson with him for an hour, and expects to discuss the subject individually with other members.
He is in constant communication with Senator Bacon, chairman of the committee, who had a long conference
today with Secretary Bryan.
Senator Bacon said tonight that while he was not at liberty to discuss his talk with Mr. Bryan in detail, he could state there had been no change in the fixed purpose of the United States to have Huerta eliminated from the situation.
TWO COURSES OPEN.
In the view of many officials who expected a rejection by Huerta of the American demands, only two courses are open to the United States—either to compose the situation directly or to throw its moral support with the Constitutionalists in their fight to obtain possession of the government in Mexico City.

There is a strong disposition to recognize the Constitutionalists, to recognize the government and the Constitution. Officials in the confidence of President Wilson said that while there was no alliance between the Washington government and the Constitutionalists, the sympathies of this government would incline toward the Constitutionalists. The discussion, they said, had not proceeded to the point where recognition of the belligerency of the Constitutionalists was being considered. Little was embargo on arms, however, is the method by which many Senators believe the situation can best be met.

CARRANZA'S PURPOSES.
It is believed that before the Washington government takes a step, an understanding through informal and unofficial channels may be reached as to the exact purposes of the Constitutionalists, so that any act of sympathy toward their cause might be predicated on assurances of a definite character. To this end, it is reported that agents of the United States government are gathering information along the border of the strength of the Constitutionalists, and the programme which they have mapped out.

It was admitted tonight by State Department officials that no final word had come from Huerta as to the American demands presented by Charge, O'Quinn.
The President did not take his customary Saturday afternoon automobile ride, but remained at the White House absorbed in the dispatches from Mexico.

TO STAY AT THE POST.
The President expects to forego his usual Sunday custom of banishing official business for the day, and will see some of the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The President is said to be impressing upon all those who discuss the subject with him that it is the duty of the United States to see to it that the arbitrary assumption of power by Huerta, followed by his dictatorship, should not be permitted to ripen into a precedent in Latin-America.

No official comment was forthcoming tonight on the dispatches from Mexico City announcing Huerta would be aided by English financial interests in meeting the government's immediate expenses. Prominent Senators said, however, they believed the Huerta government could not be sustained long by private interests.

NOT SURPRISED BY COWDRAY.
Information of the part the English financial interests are said to have played in supporting the Huerta government has been in possession of the United States government for some time, and persons in the confidence of President Wilson said he had this phase of the situation in mind when he made his Mobile speech, attacking
the influence of material interests of foreign nations in the political affairs of Central and South American republics.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The German

today to remain in Central Ameri-

of necessity.

COWDRAY FURNISHES CASH FOR MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8.—Provisional President Huerta, it was learned in authoritative circles
here today, has obtained sufficient British capital to operate the Mexican government, at least until the end of the present month.

The funds are said to have been obtained through the efforts of Lord Cowdray, head of the Pearson syndicate.
The financial situation here changed slightly for the better today. Some banks are putting out silver.
Among the callers received by John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, were the bishop of Mexico and Gen. Fernando Gonzalez, one of the oldest officials in the Mexican army, who recently retired.

S.O.S.
STEAMER IN COLLISION
MAKING WAY TO PORT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—The steamer Pielades, which sailed
today for Ancon, Panama,
was in collision with an unknown vessel tonight, fifteen miles south of the San Francisco lightship, according to a wireless message received by the Merchants' Exchange. The Pielades
asked for assistance, as she was badly damaged. She is commanded by Capt. H. C. Armstrong.

The Pielades is a steel vessel of 2755 tons, built in 1899. E. F. Luckenbach of the Luckenbach Steamship Company is the owner.
After tugs had been dispatched
from San Francisco to the assistance of the distressed vessel, word was received by radiogram that she was returning to port under her own steam.
She will not arrive until after midnight.

ELECT WILSON TO PARLIAMENT.

Opposition to Home Rule Indorsed by Voters.

Great Interest in Contest to Succeed Sir Rufus.

Socialists and Militants Take Part in the Fray.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—(Exclusive Dispatch.)

The Unionists were victorious today in the by-election made necessary by the withdrawal of Sir Rufus D. Isaacs to assume the Lord Chief Justiceship.

There was great interest in the contest, Capt. L. O. Wilson, Unionist, winning the seat with 5144 votes.

George Feabody Gooch, Liberal, received 4821 and the Socialist candidate, Mr. Butler, 1623. The Socialist cut into the Liberal vote.

The Socialists made a feature of the Marconi controversy in which Sir Rufus Isaacs figured, but the Unionists avoided mention of Marconi and made opposition to the Marconi bill the insurance act for their rallying cry.

The militant suffragettes supported Capt. Wilson. Just before the polls closed a large number of militants arrived. The town hall, where the counting occurred, was guarded by a double force of police, while the polling places were carefully watched throughout the day, as an attack on the ballot boxes was feared.

At the last election Sir Rufus Isaacs (Liberal) polled 5094 votes against 4995 received by Capt. Wilson (Unionist).

The Liberal candidate, Mr. Gooch, was formerly a member for Bath. He entered the constituency on the eve of the contest.

Serious Catarrh Yields to Hyomei

Be wise in time and use Hyomei at the first warning of catarrh.

Do not let the disease extend along the delicate mucous membrane, gradually going from the nose to the throat, thence into the bronchial tubes, and downward until the lungs are reached and you are in danger of consumption.

Hyomei will effectively relieve all curable forms and stages of catarrh. It is so uniformly successful that it is always sold on money back if not benefited plan.

There is no other treatment for catarrh that is like Hyomei or just as good. None can take its place, none give such quick and sure relief and at so little cost. This treatment is breathed through a pocket inhaler that comes with every original outfit, thus reaching the most remote cells of the air passages, killing the catarrhal germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

Begin the use of Hyomei today and you will soon find that the offensive breath, the droppings into the throat, the discharge from the nose, sneezing and all other symptoms of catarrh are overcome. The complete outfit containing inhaler and bottle of liquid costs but $1.00. Extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents per bottle everywhere. — [Advertisement.]

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

PRESIDENT WHIFFEN ADVOCATES UNITY.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

HANFORD, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The nineteenth annual convention of the Counties Committee of the California Development Board came to a close at noon today and adjourned after endorsing by resolution the State-wide movement for the improvement of inland waterways, agricultural credit facilities for California farmers; co-operation of all counties in exhibition at the San Francisco and San Diego exhibitions, the Newlands River regulation bill, the establishment of a ferry between San Pablo and Contra Costa and Marin counties, the referendum, the State highway project and a resolution thanking the city of Hanford for its hospitality.

Santa Rosa was chosen as the convention city for the 1914 session. The selection was unanimous. The adoption of a resolution favoring the Newlands bill met with spirited opposition from the Sacramento delegation, headed by O. H. Miller, upon the grounds that the bill contained provisions which perhaps might not conserve the best interests of the Sacramento River communities. Miller moved that the resolution be referred to the California Development Board for their consideration only. After talks by Col. John P. Irish, Isidor Jacobs, W. W. Gingles and others the motion to defer the adoption of the Newlands bill was defeated and the resolution was passed.

The resolution committee refused to take action on the resolution favoring the home rule tax action because the subject was too great to be considered in the short space of time allowed. Isidor Jacobs, president of the California Farmers' Association, made a strong attempt to have the resolution passed, but President Dutton ruled that inasmuch as the Resolution Committee had refused to entertain the resolution, no vote could be taken.

Frank S. Whiffen, president of the Los Angeles City Council, caused the convention to burst into enthusiastic applause when, by a plea for greater unity between the northern and southern sections of the State, he said that the spirit of sectionalism should be swept aside for the best interests of the whole State. Mr. Whiffen said: "Southern California is ready to stretch its hand of welcome across the Tehachas and hopes that Northern California will do the same. While you folks in San Francisco are working for the success of the great Panama-Pacific Exposition and you have Los Angeles and the South behind you in your efforts, we in Los Angeles are taking care of the thousands swarming in upon us from the eastern States."

Fifty-nine Indictments. ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Fifty-nine indictments were returned today against nine officials and former officials of East St. Louis, Ill., by the grand jury which has been investigating charges of municipal graft.

CHEATED THE GALLOW.

Man Convicted of Murder at Riverside Shortly Afterward.

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 8.—Cheating the gallows of a possible victim, Pete Belotti, a Swiss-Italian, convicted by a jury shortly after midnight of the murder of Paul Vial, a well-known Winchester rancher, died in his cell in the County Jail at an early hour this morning.

To discover whether or not Belotti had taken poison, which it is admitted he could easily have obtained while he was out on bail, furnished by Antonio Dominioni in the amount of $10,000, an autopsy was held, and the results of the examination were brought out in part before a coroner's jury held this afternoon.

So far as the examination had proceeded, the physicians stated that the heart and brain showed no evidence of a diseased condition. It is probable that an examination of the intestines will prove whether the convicted man's death was the result of poisoning or not.

When the case went to the jury, Belotti, for the first time during his trial, gave evidence of nervousness, and was observed to hurriedly walk over to a corner of the courtroom and behind a law bookcase. He was followed by Deputy Sheriff Nelson, who did not detect the prisoner in the act of swallowing anything.

HAVE CIVIC PRIDE. Thirty property owners residing on Almond street, which abuts the lower canal of the Riverside Water Company, and meeting under the auspices of the Almond Street Improvement Association, adopted resolutions which, if carried out, will make that one of the city's attractive thoroughfares and a popular entrance to Fairmount Park, and connecting this playground with White Park on a direct line.

water company is ready to abandon, and the property owners pledge themselves to improve the street under the ten-year bond act in case the canal is filled and some other minor details are worked out by the Council for making the street suitable for an entrance into the park.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFUL, CHARMING HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Try This! Doubles Beauty of Your Hair and Stops It Falling Out.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.—(Advertisement.)

CLEANED THEM OUT.

Two enterprising thieves worked a new game on Los Angeles citizens yesterday. Ordinarily, according to popular belief, a man is considered reasonably safe in the possession of his money if he has it in his bank, but from the course pursued yesterday, it would appear that this is a mistaken idea. Paul Young, and W. J. Brown, roomed at 113 Crocker street. Sometime yesterday two men entered the room with a pass key and obtained possession of bank books belonging to the occupants of the room. Yesterday, just before the banks closed, a man appeared at the Home Savings Bank with Young's book and secured $74. Another man, presumably his pal, appeared at the All Night and Day Bank with Brown's book and secured $118. Brown is also minus a new suit of clothes which one of the robbers thoughtfully secured while in the room.

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 8.—This afternoon an oil tank near the Pacific Electric depot caught fire and exploded, igniting other tanks near it. No buildings were harmed but the fire was so close to the tracks that electric cars could not pass. It was found necessary to cut the trolley wire to prevent danger from a live wire. The tanks and oil belonged to Roy McKean. The loss was several thousand dollars.

REPLENISHING HIS WARDROBE.
Santa Ana Store Entered by Thief Who Takes Large Supply of Fashionable Togs.
SANTA ANA, Nov. 8.—A burglar who did his dirty work by anything yet pulled off in Santa Ana by any of his profession, got away with $150 worth of clothing from the Wardrobe Clothing House last night. The burglar entered through a ventilator of the skylight. He descended by sliding down a line made up of old harness reins, tied at the tip to a letter filing case taken from the Orange County Business College. The man evidently wanted to leave no tell-tale finger-prints behind, for he wrapped the handles of the case with paper. Since he was coming into new wealth the man decided to dress up a bit. He discarded a suit of filthy flannel shirt and pants and put on new clothes. He packed the loot into a handsome brass-finished trunk and made up the back door, which he opened with a pair of tailor's shears. The officers think the burglar had an automobile into which the trunk was placed.

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Will Digest Any Meal.

One of the saddest sights at a royally rich dinner is to see a man or a woman unable to eat because of dyspepsia.

It is really a crime to continue this martyrdom when all one has to do is to eat a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

Just carry a tablet in your purse and after each meal eat it as you would a peppermint. It will digest the meal and surely convince you that food will not hurt you.

One grain of the ingredients which compose a Stuart's Tablet will digest 1000 grains of fish, soup, coffee, ice cream, meats, vegetables and pastes. The whole idea of this great natural digester is to aid nature to do her work without exhaustion, and it certainly accomplishes this result.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are our best known remedy for all stomach and dyspepsia troubles. It is positively wonderful to see the way one of these little tablets will digest a meal.

And no one realizes it until one has used these tablets.

Every drug store sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and sells them in huge quantities. No matter where you are located you may go to any druggist and buy "I Know I'll Be Sick" will last you long time. Absolutely convince you dyspepsia can be prevented.

Many thousands of people use these tablets occasionally just to keep their digestion always perfect. If you stay up late or overeat then take a tablet before bedtime; there will be no horrible dreams or bad mouth taste. Go to your druggist now and buy a 50c box and go armed against any kind of stomach trouble.

HANGTOWN HUNG UP FOR A REST.

NATIVE SONS' SHOW CLOSED AFTER RICH WEEK.

Tremendous Crowds Pour Many Dollars Into Coffers of Local Parlor, Which Plan to Entertain Grand Parlor—Managers Decide Not to Operate Another Week.

The Hangtown carnival given by the Native Sons was closed last night after a highly successful week. An immense crowd attended the final exhibition and the total attendance for the week was estimated at 30,000. Herman Lichtenberger, chairman of the general committee, estimated that the receipts from all sources would amount to $12,000.

All of the booths and concessions were profitable. Beginning with $11,000 on Monday, the receipts increased steadily to last night when the amount was estimated at $4,000. The total receipts amounted to about $75,000.

The principal event last evening was a fake hanging. A different type of spectacle was provided for each evening. The crowds enjoyed the surprises.

The benefit has been a great success. Lichtenberger said last night, "and we wish to thank the public for its liberal patronage. We have been urged to continue the carnival and we will, but the attendants are worn out from the long hours and trying work and for this and other reasons we decided to close at the time announced."

"The money derived from the benefit will be used in entertaining the Native Sons in Los Angeles in 1919 when we expect to have 20,000 out-of-town visitors."

Soldiers' Home Officials Contemplate Making an Application for Owens River Water—Recent Deaths. SOLDIERS' HOME, Nov. 8.—With a view to providing for future contingencies, such as possible scarcity of water under the system now in operation here, the question of seeking a supply of the Owens River water has occupied attention of local officials at this place.

Gov. Barry, when seen in relation to the matter, stated that the subject had engaged something of official attention, but that nothing definite was in sight. A proposition, he said, had been received from the aqueduct officials, which would be presented to the board of managers of the National Home and in course of time the question would be decided by that body.

"I am, of course," said Gen. Barry, "not authorized to speak for the board of managers, but I am, as well as all officers local to this branch, in favor of the proposition, and have every reason to hope for concurrence on the part of the president of the board."

It will be some time before Owens River product will reach this section, and in the meantime the home, notwithstanding the limited rainfall last season, is in no danger of suffering from water famine, as is shown in the last quarterly report of Chief Engineer Dobbin.

The average daily production of domestic well water is quoted as 113,540 gallons. Irrigation, canyon, and 107,237 gallons—a total production of 520,477 gallons per day.

BEFORE A JURY OF WOMEN.

Alleged Santa Monica Wife Beater to Have Case Threshed Out in Unsympathetic Atmosphere. SANTA MONICA, Nov. 8.—Eighteen of the most prominent society and club women of Santa Monica have been empaneled as jurors to sit in the case of Frank Feeley, plumber, and an alleged wife beater. The papers were served by Mrs. E. F. Leavitt, police master. Most of the women expressed indignation at being haled into the crude atmosphere of a Police Court, to try a palpitably sordid case, which presented no ethical problems. There will be many excuses when Justice Brown calls the panel for service on Monday, when the trembling culprit is to come forth to be interrogated by the dozen society matrons and maids.

Among the women empaneled are: Mrs. D. G. Stephens, president of the Board of Education, and first president of the Santa Monica Bay Women's Club; Mrs. F. H. Taft, president of the club and wife of Judge F. H. Taft; Mrs. A. M. Jamison, past president of the Women's Club; Mrs. Jessica Clark, secretary; Mrs. J. W. Todd, former secretary of the club; Mrs. L. H. Case, prominent society leader; Mrs. George H. Hutton, Mrs. S. J. Eggleston, Mrs. H. Merrill, Mrs. I. N. Berkley, Mrs. W. C. Fletcher, Mrs. H. M. Rebock, wife of the superintendent of schools; Mrs. J. S. Smeal, Miss Edith Moore, Mrs. W. O. Bray, Mrs. Guy Chase and Mrs. R. Fogel.

Mrs. Leavitt invaded the palatial homes of the fashionable quarter to tell the women that they must appear to serve. "The idea!" and "Pray, what is the case?" were some of the expressions used. In the late afternoon it became quite the social event to become empaneled on the Feeley case.

Judge Lawlor of San Francisco today ruled that only men may sit on a jury, the case of being that of the People vs. Westernberg. Other superior judges in California have held that women may not serve on juries. But though Feeley may have good grounds for a plea to set aside the verdict because women tried him, Justice Brown will go on with the case.

ELECTION IN SCOTLAND.

LINLITHGOW (Scotland) Nov. 8.—Mr. Pratt, the Liberal candidate for Linlithgowshire, was successful over his Unionist opponent, James Kidd, by a large majority, at the bye-election held here yesterday. The figures as given out today were: Pratt, 518; Kidd, 211. Unionist, 504; Pratt's majority, 521.

MOVING TIME.

James O'Brien let a contract to move the O'Brien house from the corner of Third and Main streets to a position on Third street. The wooden structure will be made into a store building in an old landmark. In the early days it was the Glenwood Hotel, and used that name until the town was so small that hotel was hardly a fitting name. Thereafter it was called the Glenwood rooming-house. Smith is clearing the corner lot in order to put up a two or three-story brick building. This is the last available building site within a block and a half of the center of the city. Everhard F. Penrose, a G.A.R. veteran, has finally secured a divorce from Ella Penrose. Penrose made an attempt to get a decree several weeks ago, but his story of cruelty was not substantiated. His wife lives in Penrose's home and it was there that the acts of cruelty are alleged to have occurred. A continuance of the case follows in her blue eyes. Eagerly the anxious watchers pressed forward as they sensed a solution to the mystery. The hope was futile. Evidently the brow puckered and the white, well-kempt hands were clasped piteously to her bosom in a despairing effort to remember.

Dr. Burrows is confident that some drug has been given the young woman, who is apparently about 19 years old. There is every appearance of refinement about her. The only distinctive clue thus far obtained by officers working on the unusual case is the condition of her finger nails, which are stained and indicate that she probably has been employed in a photograph gallery. At first it was thought that she might be Miss Mable Slater, No. 234 West Fifty-fourth

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 8.—The campaign committee of the San Bernardino Citizens' Association, organized by Chairman J. A. Galt of the County Commission, is earnestly working for the completion of the road from Ontario and Prudhoe to the city today by good roads men.

This committee will take the campaign for carrying the road to the county commission on December 17, and a meeting of the committee will be held within a few days to outline the campaign and to select a series of mass meetings to be held in every portion of the county.

The meeting was attended by about 250 prominent citizens, every section of the county being represented. The meeting was held at the Hotel of Commerce, which has been the headquarters of the campaign since its inception.

One of the important items on the agenda was the passage of a resolution which called for the immediate action of the county commission to take up the road project.

The meeting was a success and the committee is confident that the road will be completed by the end of the year.

The only certain one is to make an actual service test on the material under observation, and under the same conditions of traffic and climate to which the proposed road will be subjected. This method is impractical except in rare instances, due to the expense of time before definite results can be obtained. The second method is, by means of short-time laboratory tests, to approximate the destructive agencies to which the material will be subjected on the road, supplementing this knowledge by a study of the results obtained in practice on material of a similar nature.

"The Pride of the Rancho"
Alfalfa at Perris Irrigated Farms
The better the land the heavier the stand. When you buy good soil you save hard toil. Big bank accounts follow big crop amounts. Ample water irrigates, a short supply irritates. A poor farm is a false alarm. Look ahead is well said. If you give your afterthought the first of it, you never will get the worst of it. Better be glad you did, than sad you did. Better be safe than sorry.

There Are No Sorry Men on Perris Irrigated Farms
$150 An Acre—Any Size Farm
WATER READY—WATER RIGHTS FREE
Small payment down and no more to pay for two years if you develop your place. Long time on balance. Seeing is believing. Go and see. There are no other lands so good, so near Los Angeles. These farms carry the banner for alfalfa.
They are excellent for fruit and general farm crops. They are only 2 1/2 hours from Los Angeles in the heart of fertile Riverside county. You can go and return the same day, and it costs only $3.75.

NEW REMEDY SAVES OLD FOLKS FROM KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES
Sleep Disturbing Bladder Weakness, Backache, Stiff Joints, Rheumatic Pains Disappear After Few Doses are Taken.
While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can easily avoid the tortures of backache and rheumatism, and he saved the annoyance of getting up at night with disagreeable bladder disorders.
It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what else you have used. It is practically impossible to take this quick-acting, effective preparation without immediate results. It starts to work the minute you take it—the first time you use it. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.—[Advertisement]

LOS ANGELES (Lone Ahng-hay-lis)

Entered at the Postoffice as second class matter of Class II.

A WARNING.

A revolt is under way in Hayti. The people there would better go slow. Mr. Wilson may send them one of his ultimata, which do not ultimate, on the slightest occasion, and it might be twenty-four hours before Bryan could deny that it had been sent.

UNDAUNTED.

In spite of the fact that a man would have to pay an income tax on a salary of $3000 a year or over, plenty of brave persons are still willing to stand for a raise in pay. Notice can also be assumed with this tax, but they will continue to be accepted where the security looks good and the interest is high enough.

TEMPORARY.

We do not like the Tammany Tiger and are glad when it is beaten, but we see nothing permanent in victories by fusion tickets. Tammany remains a unit of organized strength, but the fusionists must always represent the many without anybody knowing who's who for another fight.

A WASTE OF KNOWLEDGE.

A jury of women at San Mateo has solemnly obligated itself not to reveal the secrets of its researches. Wonder if this will not take away the zest of the jury? What is the use to learn all of these lovely forbidden things if they cannot be told to one's neighbor on a strict promise that she will not tell anybody else?

A RELIEF.

A few days hence will see the reopening of the coast line through the fire-swept Santa Margarita tunnel. This will be a great relief to scores of lively villages which have suffered for several months from negligible traffic facilities. Passengers have been carried, but some of the smaller tradesmen have been handicapped in the matter of express.

A FRESH OUTBREAK.

A California Democrat, who would like to be his party's nominee for Governor, wants to run on a platform which would be pledged to break up an alleged trust in salt-water fish and which would let the Governor appoint a large number of officers as a President does his Cabinet. This State is so far advanced in crazy measures that when a new crank comes along he has to jump into the sea in order to get fresh bait for suckers.

COMMERCIALISM AND CHARITY.

Charity must be organized on a business basis to be effective; charity must never become a channel for commercialism. When an organization appeals to the public for funds, the public have every right to demand that the money be economically and properly expended.

The Charity Commissioners would have been derelict in their duty had they injured so badly-managed a concern as the Bethlehem Institution, or any other institution that uses philanthropic inducements to experiment with publicly-subscribed money on non-paying properties. There are too many real charities needing public support for good money to be thrown away on institutions that have no head for business and no real heart for real charity.

A NIFT METAPHOR.

The former Governor of New York was impeached by the Legislature in one month and was elected to that same Legislature the month following. He is now in a position to do some impeaching himself if occasion arises and there are several persons in New York whom Sulzer does not love. He is referred to as Murphy's Minister on account of the liberality of his graft operations. It will be remembered that the living offerings to the Minotaur were placed in the mouth of the cave and they never could escape, because they could not find their way out. The Minotaur was finally slain by the aid of a string which the avenger was able to follow and so find his way back to light and safety. Mr. Hennessy (who is in the role of the slayer of the beast that was half bull and half man) probably made sure of his string on the outside of New York's political cave before he took a chance on the deadly combat in the dark.

WHERE IS HELL?

Very interesting are the results obtained by the United States Weather Bureau from experiments conducted on Catalina Island. The idea that the temperature of the ether falls continually as the altitude increases has been proved to be incorrect. This is only true till a height of eleven miles has been attained; after that it starts to rise again. From the eleventh to the twentieth mile it rose seven degrees. From the same rate of increase, when an altitude of 10,000 miles has been touched, a mere trifling distance considered astronomically, the temperature would be 6000 degrees. In such an oven as this even a resident of Yuma would hardly wireless back home for his blankets.

The actual location of the abode of unregenerate spirits has never been satisfactorily determined, but these experiments give us a hint in that direction. But let not the wicked find any consolation from the fact that they may be destined to ascend to the skies after all. It is possible that hell may be in the heavens, that is to say that part of hell that is not already on earth. Science and religion are both really working hard to "beat hell." When science has discovered it, religion will abolish it.

THE PROGRESSIVE SLUAP.

Our steamed morning Progressive one-cent contemporary accounts for 60,000 or more Progressives leaving their party in New Jersey to vote the straight Republican ticket on the ground that the Republican candidate for Governor last year, along with 60,000 other Republicans, voted for Roosevelt. If that proves anything, except the mutability of political opinions in New Jersey, it proves that the Progressive party was founded upon and existed in order to promote the personal ambitions of the big Bull Moose; and with these removed to Brazil and the Argentine, and the purses of Perkins and Munsey closed with a relentless snap in the faces of the Progressive committee, there was no excuse to warrant New Jersey Progressives in standing weeping by the side of the defunct and decaying corpse of the Progressive organization.

Forty thousand of them remained by the remains and so helped the Princeton schoolmaster to a job hunter's verdict that he was a consistent, scholarly statesman and diplomat. But 60,000 of them having aided a former Progressive to capture the Republican gubernatorial nomination, accompanied him in his wise and fearless jump over the fence from the arid waste of Rooseveltian faddism into the green field and pleasant grove where for four successive Presidential elections the grand old elephant has trumpeted his triumphs.

If the leading Progressive politicians of California were not so besotted with themselves, and so drunk with their self-complacent astuteness, they would, instead of opposing "getting together," eagerly advocate it. Other things being equal, they might be able to outgeneral the straight Republican leaders in the primaries and nominate ex-Progressives for office in the reunited party. But other things are not equal, and Holy Hiram, and Chattering Chet, and Gates Ajpr, and Toopious Earl may have just enough sense to know it. They may be able to appreciate the fact that in a reunited party their chances of obtaining or retaining office would be very, very small. The trickster, and lust of power, and ever-ready for personal profit in money or office, and utter disregard of the public interest that have been manifested by Gov. Johnson and his commissioners and inspectors and other members of his plunderband, have been so shamelessly and openly and defiantly exhibited as to make the nomination of any of them for office improbable even in a Progressive body and utterly impossible in a "get-together" convention.

PEACE AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Gov. Baileston of Indiana at last issued an order, which would have saved lives and property if it had been issued a week ago, calling upon 2000 of the militia for service against the striking rioters.

Upon the issuance of this order, the strike collapsed. For twenty rioters to attack one policeman or one non-union workman was one proposition; to face the rifles of soldiers was another. The cessation of rioting was achieved by an agreement by which the company virtually surrendered to the strikers. The company is probably not to be censured for the surrender, any more than unarmed passengers in a state coach should be censured for giving up their purses and watches to armed bandits. But one of the terms of the surrender is disgraceful, nevertheless. It is the feature which requires all the strikers who cannot be proved to have actually participated in violence during the strike to be restored to their former places in the employment of the company, although to make room for such restoration, the courageous men who took their places and loyally fought for the company must be discharged.

The agreement to cease the strike exempts the strikers from consequences. They have had a week's vacation. Some of them get their places back. They do not pay for the large amount of damage done to the company property by rioting, wire cutting, car windows broken, the windows of cars smashed, or the loss of fares for a week. Nor yet for the injuries inflicted upon a hundred people, including police officers, or the funeral expenses of four men killed, or the loss to widows and orphans.

The provision of the agreement that disputes and grievances as to wages, hours and conditions of service shall be referred to a public utilities commission, will doubtless be considered by the labor union as a Flora McPimsey promise to marry: "A sort of engagement, you see. That is binding on you, but not binding on me."

SHALLOW REASONERS.

Marx and Bakunin and Sorel and Lagardelle and Berth and Berson and Engels, in all their advocacy of Socialism, do not recognize any such thing as man's existence after the death of his body. If Gomper, and Mitchell, and Tristram, and McCarthy, and Harriman, and Darrow believe that there is an overruling God and a system of future rewards and punishment they have evidently made up their minds to enlist under Capt. Lucifer and enjoy a summer climate hereafter.

If they have any ideas about the universe, or about anything else except how to abstract one or two dollars a month from the wages of thousands of mechanics and servant girls, it is that the solar system consists of a number of planets that have tumbled out of chaos into existence by chance, and happen by luck to whirl around in the same orbits for a few millions of years.

The shallow reasoners who dogmatically assert that death ends all and that when life passes from the body the ego goes into dreamless eternal sleep assail and disregard the elementary truth which is taught alike by the whirling planets and the babbling brooks that nothing is ever utterly extinguished and that the indestructibility of matter and the persistence of force are two great primal controlling facts in material nature.

Agas ago the force of the sunbeams changed the matter which then appeared as a branch of a fallen tree into the matter which now appears as a lump of coal. To-day man applies the force which we call fire to the matter which we call coal, and the indestructible substance which was once a vegetable and afterwards a mineral becomes gases and ashes, and the force of the long-buried sunbeams leaps to turn a wheel, or flare in a gas jet, or shine in an electric light.

We prove every day, in every field and furnace and factory, that while the form of matter may change, yet matter itself is indestructible, and that while the direction of force may change, yet force itself never expires.

Not in all material nature can be found the type of eternal death. The rock, once a seaphile within which stony fingers were busy flung away the annals of creation, is assailed by waters and winds, and disintegrated by time, until it becomes sands, rich in plant food, to nurture other lives, the depths of the silent sea are awaying with currents and counter-currents. It is the home of lives that nurture other lives, the great other lives again. Its busy surface answers to the call of the moon and mounds in and out over the harbor bar, or snatches its white teeth upon a hundred rockbound coasts. The peaceful stars are far-off swinging lights coursing around their everlasting orbits. The forest drops and renews its draperies of emerald and crimson and brown. The brook now plashes through summer banks and now is locked in the icy fetters of winter. In all things the feeble pulse of the infant to the fiery course of a meteor torn by burning ether from the tortured breast of chaos force has never for an instant stayed its unrelenting and imperious hand, and no rest comes to the waiting, or the weary, for the end is the beginning and the beginning is the end.

"And all this," says the bumptious scientist, who has measured God's universe with the little tape line of his little brain, "all this does not prove to me that man has any future life, for I have dug up a Hebrew root with my little philological spade, and with it I overturn the splendid system of ethics and philosophy with which the civilized world has been governed and under which it has progressed for 1600 years. I have examined a potato bug under a microscope, and the shape of its vermillion appendages demonstrates to me that the Christian religion, as well as all the religions of the world, are based upon the fundamental error that a man lives after his body is dead. No, Plato was wrong. The Apostle Paul was a dreamer. Humboldt was a fraud. Christianity is a delusion which vanishes upon my scalpel."

An honest Socialist, one who is not such for the sake of obtaining public office, or levying tribute upon working men and women, is a believer in the wisdom and rightfulness of community of property and community of effort. He believes in verily his wants, to spend as he goes and to send on himself. To save to be slave, shall he work to educate his children? He has no special interest in them. The community must care for them. Shall he save for those who come after him? Why? Since, according to Socialist beliefs, he dies when his body dies, what interest can he possibly have in his posterity?

The apostles of Socialism admit that they advocate philosophic materialism, as opposed to them. That is to say, in plain English, they preach the advantages of co-operative selfishness over humanitarian individualism, and their little worlds would be worlds without a God, a Redeemer, a reward for righteousness or a punishment for evil-doing.

SKIRTLESS BATHING.

The authorities at Chicago are between the devil and the deep sea as to whether sanitary efficiency or Wilsonian ideas of morality shall prevail in enacting an ordinance regulating public bathing. They will have several months in which to come to a determination for the season is so far advanced that bathing in Lake

Michigan has been discontinued for the present.

The question was raised by the arrest of Dr. Rosalie M. Ladova last summer when she went into the water at the Jackson Park free beach in a bloomer suit, minus a skirt and without stockings. She claimed, and Prof. Norman C. B. Cox, swimming instructor of the Chicago Athletic Association endorsed her claim, that not any of the requirements of propriety are served by the drapery of a wet skirt. As a physician he asserted that the wearing of stockings by bathers was unsanitary, and as an economist he declared that covering the legs under such circumstances was a needless expense.

Is not the lady doctor right? What is the matter with a dainty, well-fitting bloomer suit down to the knees and no covering of so much of the human form divine as exists below the joints that all of us bend in prayer each morning and evening?

If the Chicago city fathers insist upon a skirt and stocking ordinance that will make a poor woman look like a short ladder wrapped in a wet blanket, let the doctor come to God's country. The beaches of Los Angeles and all their sons will welcome her to disport in the Pacific surf every day in the year, attired or divested of attire as her views of propriety and health may dictate. If necessary a section of the ocean front will be reserved for her and her friends, where they may be secluded from the immediate gaze of the public. Toopious may ensconce himself with a field glass on the neighboring heights, but he would not harm her if he could, and couldn't if he would.

GRAZING IN FOREST RESERVES.

If the extension and close care of forest reserves shall tend to diminish the national output of lumber it will at least add to increase the meat supply of the country. It is probably not generally known that 17 per cent. of the cattle, 3.43 per cent. of the horses and mules, and 37.5 per cent. of the sheep in the United States are grazed in the national forests.

Nine million animals were grazed on the national forest lands during last summer, and the most meddlesome glass-eyed kid invited out of college by Pinchot to become a forest ranger has not reported that the grazing of the cows and the sheep involved any sacrifice of forest or watershed protection, or injured permanent forage productivity in the national forests.

"The principal revenues of the government from forest lands," says an eastern exchange, "come from sales of lumber; but considering national interests in the larger sense, it is certain that the greatest profit is obtained from the encouragement and assistance given to live-stock raisers. The system of range management applied by the government has proved effective and simple, and the quality and quantity of the national crop is said to be improving each year."

In view of this, and in view also of the care the government is now exercising in the conservation of all the natural resources under its control, it would be pleasant to hear of increasing gains annually in the percentage of live stock grazed in the forests. With better range management than can usually be pointed to on the outside, and with the quantity and quality of grass annually improving on these areas, perhaps the country can look to the forest reserve with greater confidence than to any other quarter as a future source of steady and permanent meat supply.

"Government ownership and operation of all the available cattle grazing lands might serve to restore in large measure the ranges of a generation ago, and, under more satisfactory conditions than existed when the drives were open to all free of charge and subject to the neglect consequent to general irresponsibility."

WOULD AN INVASION BE WORTH THE COST?

BY GEORGE W. BURTON.

The trouble with President Wilson is that he thinks the world can be governed in about the same way as a classroom in a university. In disposition the President is set in his ways to the extent of being positively obstinate. Having made a mistake, it would be pain and grief to him to acknowledge the error of his ways, to retrace his steps and follow a different course.

The interests of our country in Mexico are astoundingly large. When the trouble broke out there were 50,000 of our people scattered throughout that republic with investments there said to amount in the aggregate to $1,057,770,000. This is the respect wherein our dealings with Mexico ought to have taken their initiative, and in the main there they ought to have reined. The President was pleased to see things in a different light. By disposition, training and experience, being an idealist and moralist rather than a statesman, he took the view and has clung to it that our relations with the sister republic centered mainly in the morals of the people of Mexico.

Practical statesmanship in our opinion would have dictated a very different course. It would have been better if the President had served notice on the de facto government of Mexico that the lives of American citizens should be safeguarded and their property rights respected, and that for every American injured in his person or possessions a strict account would be required. This would have been solid ground to occupy and would have been recognized as unquestionably proper by all the nations of the earth. By the prevailing interpretation of the Monroe doctrine the task of protecting the lives and persons of citizens and subjects of other countries and of their property is imposed upon us, a burdensome task surely.

The course the President has taken and his headstrong persistence therein create the danger of our being obliged to interfere with the internal affairs of Mexico by intervention with an armed force. That President Wilson will be dictated to by President Wilson is out of the question. That President Wilson will yield or change his policy does not appear likely from his conduct up to this moment. He not only has tried to dictate to the Mexican people who shall govern them, but he has tried to dictate to Great Britain the policy to be followed by that power in its relations to Mexico. When Mr. Lind held a conference with the Ambassadors of other countries at Vera Cruz recently the British Minister was included in a manner so ostentatious as to endanger our friendly relations with a country of our own kindred, the British empire. There is no doubt that there are Americans, whose number and standing demand attention, who are in favor of intervention on our part and the invasion of Mexico. Not a few favor our seizing a part of the territory of that republic. It seems to us that these views are founded either on a lack of thorough knowledge of the circumstances or on personal interests. For us to undertake to possess ourselves of a league of Mexican territory would create suspicion all through Spanish America most detrimental to our interests among those peoples.

It may seem to some observers a small matter that we should undertake armed intervention to force the views of President Wilson on the Mexican people. This is not the opinion of the army officers who have given the subject thorough consideration. They tell us it will require an army amounting to something like 500,000 troops to make a successful invasion of Mexico and will require at least five years to accomplish our task. This may be regarded as an exaggerated estimate. Presuming it to be correct, one-third of these men would be left dead in Mexico, another 100,000 would return shattered in health, to be pensioners upon the country for the next fifty years, and the other third of the invaders would return much impaired in efficiency and in morals for the rest of their lives. The cost in money would run to tens of millions of dollars. We may well ask ourselves whether plunging into such a course whether it would be worth such an enormous cost.

Mexico is almost five times as large as California in area. Its population numbers about 15,000,000. The territory is cut in all directions by immense mountain chains, the climate is insalubrious to the last degree, the southern States of the republic reaching within ten degrees of the equator. Gen. Carranza has an army in revolt against President Huerta numbering 70,000. Huerta's troops number a larger force. In case of any intervention on our part with Mexico all factions there would be drawn instantly together to resist the invasion. Mexico could raise 200,000 men to resist our forces. Her soldiers have been at war for a couple of years. They are indigenous, acclimated, hardy veterans, knowing how to shoot, knowing their own country well, and in a defensive warfare which they would carry on they would have a vast advantage over our unacclimated and raw material as anybody conversant with war must know.

There would probably not be a single pitched battle in three to five years. It would be guerrilla warfare all the time. The Mexican people are not lacking in intelligence, so far as this kind of warfare is concerned. They would retreat into the mountains, ambushing our troops and making the successful pursuit of them almost impossible.

The Mexican soldier can subsist on 10 cents a day and get that by plundering the country through which he passes. His uniform will not cost a dollar and he will never suffer a moment from the torrid heat of the climate, while he will be much less subject to disease than our troops, unaccustomed to the country and not acclimated.

We are presenting here the views of every intelligent American, including that of the army officers who know anything about the Mexican people. With these views before us surely the earnest prayers of all Americans will be for divine guidance over the minds of our President and his advisers, guiding them in the right way and preserving our country from all the disastrous losses and hardships of a five years' war.

outcome every patriotic citizen must

Senator Norris of Nebraska has been chosen among the Progressive shires of his State, but he went to Massachusetts to campaign for the election of Augustus Gardner, the Republican candidate for Governor, though the Progressive party of the Bay State had a gubernatorial candidate of its own. Naturally he stirred up much criticism among his Progressive friends in Nebraska, but he defended his action by stating that when Gardner was fighting "Cannonism" in Congress a lot of present-day Progressives were sitting still and making no protest. Senator Norris also says that the formation of the Progressive party was a mistake, and that the sole consideration in politics
should be determined by what course
the most good can be accomplished
without reference to party names.

Hereafter American diplomats at European courts will eschew gold lace and military trappings, but will return to plain black, unless they violate the wishes of Secretary of State Bryan. While some diplomats have one theory, others have considered that an invitation to court carried with it an expectation that the guest would wear the garb that was customary on such occasions—namely, uniform. Uniforms are now "taboo"
under the present reform administration.

The corporation laws enacted in New Jersey during the closing days of the last session, leading the Governor of that State, and commonly known as the "seven sisters," have driven many corporations to seek courtesy in other States, with the result that there has been a loss in the State's free cash balance of $686,942,
or one-fifth of what it was a year
ago. Already there is fear of a deficit, and measures are being discussed whereby the people of the State can be taxed make up what the corporations voluntarily paid into the State treasury. This condition does not sound good to the people of New Jersey.

Gov. West (Democrat) of Oregon has had enough, and will not be a candidate for re-election. Inasmuch as the Governor was elected by a plurality of only 6192, while the Republicans have had an overwhelming majority in both branches of the Legislature, it seems to be a good time to put the Governorship back into the Republican column.

Representative John Randall Walker of Valdosta, Ga., has established a new record for generosity to his constituents. He has donated the warning of the Democratic leaders that there must be no public buildings
"pork barrel" next winter to absorb money needed for the national re-fense. Mr. Walker boldly introduced bills to erect six public buildings in his district at a cost of $100,000 each.
Here are the cities in which he wants to locate them: Ocala, population 2817; Jacksonville, population 1415; Black-shear, population 1215; Hialeah, population 1181; Nashville, population
990; Baxley, population 831.

Mr. Walker is a new member. He never has had his hand in a Congressional "pork barrel."

Immediate police activity to stop
the reckless and intoxicated drivers
of automobiles, began yesterday when
the Chief named an order directing
all officers to take the numbers and
descriptions of all motorists and motorcycles exceeding the speed limit or otherwise infringing on the "traffic
laws."

In this way, a complete register
of the habitual violators will be secured, to be in readiness for the license commission when it is organized under the provision of an ordinance to be drafted by the City Attorney.

The policemen will ally themselves with the speed squad in keeping a record of all motorists that
are speed fiends, or addicted to infringements. The reports will be filed with the chief and by him referred
to Lieutenant Butler of the traffic
bureau, who will keep the register.

"It is time right now to begin this crusade of stopping irresponsible motorists," said Chief Sebastian yester-
day. "We will compile our list of
suspects, as they might be called, so
that when the license commission is
organized, it will have a valuable reference list to begin work at once. In this way I believe we can save the
commission much trouble and time
and the crusade that we are going to carry on consistently from now on
will have a deterrent effect."

Now, after twenty years, during which he has become interested in the good roads movement, Mr. Harvey announces himself a candidate for Congress from the Third Arkansas District. He will make good roads his campaign issue, and as he has made a practical demonstration of his ability in this line through interstate highways connecting Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, he will be a real factor in the contest.

Police to Keep Immediate Tab on All Reckless and Intoxicated Drivers of Autos.

Immediate police activity to stop
the reckless and intoxicated drivers
of automobiles, began yesterday when
the Chief named an order directing
all officers to take the numbers and
descriptions of all motorists and motor-
cycles exceeding the speed limit or
otherwise infringing on the "traffic
laws."

In this way, a complete register
of the habitual violators will be
secured, to be in readiness for the
license commission when it is organized under the provision of an ordinance to be drafted by the City Attorney.

The policemen will ally themselves with the speed squad in keeping a record of all motorists that
are speed fiends, or addicted to infringements. The reports will be filed
with the chief and by him referred
to Lieutenant Butler of the traffic
bureau, who will keep the register.

"It is time right now to begin this
crusade of stopping irresponsible motorists," said Chief Sebastian yester-
day. "We will compile our list of
suspects, as they might be called, so
that when the license commission is
organized, it will have a valuable reference list to begin work at once. In this way I believe we can save the
commission much trouble and time
and the crusade that we are going to carry on consistently from now on
will have a deterrent effect."

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving 50
and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it in 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchitis and asthma.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old-squared mixture has never been equaled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has "this" will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Ontario Boosters to Send Big Delegation to San Bernardino Conference—Short News Stories.

ONTARIO, Nov. 8.—That all of San Bernardino county may know that the west end wants good roads and is strong for the proposed bond issue of $1,750,000, on which the people will vote December 17, Ontario boosters are planning to send a delegation of at least fifty automobile loads to a booster mass meeting to be held at the county seat tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The Ontario delegation is also to be joined by boosters from Chino, Upland and Cucamonga. They will leave this city at 9:30 o'clock. The bonds are said to be almost unanimously favored in this section of the county and the local people plan to bend their every effort to encouraging those whose enthusiasm is not so strong.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The sum of $37,426.50 is the amount lemon growers belonging to the Ontario-Cucamonga Fruit Exchange will receive because of a recent decision of the Supreme Court in upholding the $1 lemon rate and thus a refund of money paid on the $1.15 rate. The good fortune, following as it does on the heels of the rather severe loss from frost last year, is particularly appreciated by the local growers. It stands in particularly good stead where growers are being purchased on the installment plan and crops are dependent upon for the payments.

As the result of a meeting of the contest board of the intercollegiate conference held last night in Los Angeles, tomorrow's football game between Chaffey High and Venice, which was to have been played on the campus of the local school, has been cancelled. Venice, going to San Francisco for the Philippines, where she will join her husband, Capt. Andrews, U.S.A.

REVOLUTIONS AS BUSINESS.

GERMAN, HERE, SAYS THEY'RE PROMOTED BY BANKERS.

Declares Could Live in Luxury in South America at Small Cost, but in the End the Bankers' Concocted His Cash—Forage on the Foreigners.

After losing about $3000 in a bank failure in Buenos Aires, presumably the result of a revolution, Carl Maujoks, a retired mine operator of Berlin, is convinced that the bankers of South America promote revolutions for mercenary purposes. He is a guest at the Hollenbeck.

"Experience has taught me that the revolutions in South America usually are made to order by the financial interests," Maujoks said. "The banks wait until they have about $100,000,000 in foreign money on deposit and then they get up a revolution, close the banks and keep the money."

"The banks of Argentina, according to information obtained by me, spent $10,000,000 promoting the last revolution. It is an easy matter to employ soldiers of fortune as military leaders. The country always is full of this type and many of them have received excellent military training in Europe and not a few of them have seen much active service in wars in various countries. Soldiers can be employed at small salaries."

"I think that the banks of Argentina cleared about $50,000,000 on the last revolution and of the salespeople to the practice and made the mistake of depositing 25,000,000 in a bank. A revolution came, the bank was closed and I didn't recover any part of the money."

Maujoks had a number of interesting experiences in South America. He said that when he was in Asuncion, Paraguay, he rented a mansion, employed seven servants and lived in the luxury of an oriental potentate for eight months at a comparatively small cost.

"The seven servants cost me only a few dollars a week," Maujoks continued. "My grocery bill was about 30 cents a day. In that country cash is king. I had and large turkeys at 5 cents each, with other meats and groceries correspondingly low. I had a servant to fan me while I ate. They furnished me with three changes of garments a day and were always at my beck and call. I found many of my countrymen and men from other nations living there in luxury and enjoying the novelty of it."

The "Sol" Story's Worth.

(Baltimore Sun.) A "sol" in newspaper parlance is a human-interest story, with the belief that nothing will sell there. There are lots of them in a week's work. Every time I cover a "sol" story I recall a favorite bit of philosophy expressed by the rector of the old ivy-covered church that I attended as a little girl. "You can't find a hat becoming, when surrounded by the shaded roseate hues of here, she would be difficult indeed to suit. Case—ment—mirrors and doors, and re-reflect until one is almost bewildered with the beauty of it all. Old rose in the carpets, a more tender rose in the walls, shading to a lighter and more delicate tint

State Capitol building and not become impressed with the fact that there is a strike and jealousy and envy rampant among the members of the Governor's official household. One will hear department officials vigorously charging other departments with utter incompetence and inefficiency. I had the pleasure of a two days' sojourn in the official household, and from beginning to the end of my visit I was regaled with all sorts of talk indicative of anything but harmony in the Progressive ranks. There seems to be one man in the Capitol building who is hated worse than sin by some of the Federal patronage men. He is the man who is hated worse than sin by some of the Federal patronage men. NOTABLE IMPROVEMENT.

Church of the Epiphany Will Celebrate Corner-stone Laying by Bishop Johnson.

The corner-stone of the new Episcopal Church of the Epiphany will be laid in East Los Angeles at 3:30, next Saturday afternoon. Bishop Johnson is expected to have charge of the ceremonies, and two former rectors, Rev. Henderson Judd, now bishop of the diocese, and Dr. A. G. L. Trew, will take part. Invitations have been extended by the rector, Rev. E. L. Howe, and the vestry of the church, to all the clergy of the city and neighborhood, to take part in the procession, which will also be participated in by the choir and Sunday-school.

The new church will be of the perpendicular gothic style, with center and corner towers, and will be an ornament to its part of the city. Several fine gifts for its inner adornment have already been promised, notable among these being a handsome stained-glass window for the chancel. The improvement is a long-contemplated one and the church is to be congratulated upon its consummation.

Paisy Chain Girls in
"The Count of Luxembourg"

PUTS FAITH IN CHORUS.

"COUNT OF LUXEMBOURG" BRINGS REAL CLASS.

Frank Moulan Heads "All New York" Company but It Is the Girls Who Make the Show—Evolution of "Merry Villager" During Last Decade.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

The name of Frank Moulan is synonymous with two things—fun and girls. He is getting to be an old-timer now and has played in many parts, but almost always those the great musical comedy. Moulan has been closely to him, and whether one likes the fun or the girls best, never worried Frank. It is his principle to provide both and let it go at that. So, when "The Count of Luxembourg" begins its engagement at the Mason tomorrow night, the fact that Frank Moulan heads the cast would seem to indicate that both fun and girls will be in abundance, but at what a cost!

Back in the days when Moulan was cavorting in "Sultan of Sulu," a chorus girl, while an important asset of the company, was as plentiful and as cheap as California oranges are in New York City, but today the man who would organize a musical comedy as difficult a task as selecting his principals, and the same sort of a girl who used to get $12 and $14 per week now gets anywhere from $25 to $35 on the road. It is a matter of record right here in Los Angeles that scarcely a visiting show has played here that has not offered at least $30 a week for girls to make the eastern leg of their tour.

SCARCITY AND DEAR.

The shortage of chorus girls is due to the boom in musical comedy, and a good chorus girl is harder to find today than a good sourette, because of the ratio in supply to demand is 20 to 1, and a really good chorus girl is practically a sourette anyway. All of which is merely leading up to the assertion made by "The Count of Luxembourg" company that it has brought to the Coast an absolutely original New York chorus. In fact, they even go so far as to stake their success or failure in Los Angeles on this chorus, throwing such people as Frank Moulan, Fred Walton, the English pantomimist, Mildred Elaine and Maud Gray into a comparatively background, in order to feature the girls as the real magnet.

Otherwise, a chorus girl story would not be justified, but as they, and not the stars, are to be the feature of what promises to be one of the biggest musical shows the Mason will have this season, it is not amiss to let them fill in the limelight for a moment.

HER EVOLUTION.

But, indeed, the chorus girl of today is quite a different being from the mincing miss of two decades ago, not that she is any prettier, the old-timers would never admit that; or that she is any more gingery. As a matter of fact, she is much more inclined to be cold and petulant. The greatest difficulty that the stage manager today experiences is to make the girls laugh, while on stage, and act as if they really enjoyed their work. Yet in the old days many a girl stepped into fame over night with a merry laugh or some individual mannerism which picked her out from the rest. Lillian Russell and May Irwin were both chorus girls in the same company, and won fame along widely different lines, one having beauty and the other talent, but the remark just made has more direct reference to such celebrities as Sissy Fitzgerald and Bonnie Magin. Even today our fathers and uncles, but never our mothers and our aunts, delight in describing the illusive wink of Sissy Fitzgerald. Now, I am not sure that Sissy ever wore anything but tights during her entire stage career, but whether she sang a song or carried a spear it was her wink that made her popular, and in the hearts of the public she always remains a chorus girl.

Bonnie Magin was of later vintage than Sissy, and is probably the most famous chorus girl that Weber & Field ever had. She made her reputation by being the most animated, sprightly, sunshiny girl in the big beauty chorus. No one danced harder than she, no one kicked higher. Many around her rose from the ranks, but Bonnie kept her place at the end of the line, and probably had more drawing power than any one individual in the company.

Nowadays this sort of girl does not exist. "Florodora" changed it all, and tights in high-class musical comedy are almost unknown. One need not recount the tremendous success of Leslie Stuart's production. The long-skirted chorus made such a hit that it has been with us ever since. It is doubtful if the average theater-goer could today name the principals in the "Florodora" company, yet the names of the sextette and every one of the original members of the company who drew just $25 per week as household words today.

Fannie Belmont is now Lady Ashburton; Camille Clifford is Mrs. Lyndhurst Bruce, and her husband is heir to a title; Minnie Edwards refused a millionaire in order to star in "The

Anna Comes to Majestic With Matinee Tomorrow.

"Luxembourg" Big Girl Show
at Mason.

Offerings in Stock, Variety
and Pictures.

John Cort pays his respects to both the taste and the intelligence of the American theatergoer by sending on tour two brilliant all-star vaudeville companies, with Anna Held and Russell, each at the head of her own aggregation. Distinction as well as lavish expenditure mark this unusual enterprise, for the stars of both companies are young men and women of international renown, artists whose acts are of such special excellence as to have won for them the applause and wonder of all beholders.

In the Anna Held all-star variety jubilee, which comes to the Majestic tomorrow afternoon, the public will find a wholesome and gratifying relief from the flood of morbid, prurient, sensational, sociological and gloomy drama which has been overwhelming and stunning the theater after same enjoyment; and by the same token, those who would have their entertainment cleansed of all vulgarity, those who want fresh, clean and inspiring fun, will find in this remarkable jubilee a series of spectacles, beautiful and amazing, that will linger in their memories as the high and right standard of light entertainment.

That gifted actor, George Beban, with a wonderful little company of ten players in "The Sign of the Cross," is but one of the several unusual numbers on the programme. That little play, pretty as a fever and as tender as heartache, is recognized as one of the greatest triumphs in miniature of the vaudeville stage. It is one of the brilliant incidents of the "Anna Held all-star variety jubilee."

In marked, and yet happy contrast with this feature is the Imperial Pekinese Company of six astounding Mongolian acrobatic gymnasts, who startled even the wizards of China with their incredible and almost uncanny feats. Ward and Current, the emperors of laughter in their roving farce, "The Stage Door Tender," will reinforce the strong comedy equipment, and for the dance lovers, devotees of the syncopated marvels of the young American vogue, in dancing—Francis and Florette, the young dancing marvels of Paris and New York, have been enlisted to give the final artistic interpretation of the "Tango," the "Beverly," the "Shadow," the "Manchester," the "Side Drop Slide," the "Romantic scroll" and the "Heddlon Waltz."

Hirschel Hendler, a young pianist of wonderful proficiency, who has delighted and puzzled both music critics and fun seekers, provides an act in which his dexterity with his instrument vies for supremacy with his artistically impish impersonations of the great piano virtuosos of the past and present. His transformations into the personalities of Paderewski, Liszt, Godowski, D'Albert and other famous artists, are so convincing as to astonish even the hardiest theater-goer. Meanwhile his musical dexterity is so great that he can play ragtime a la Paderewski while yielding analysis to the manual prowess of the great Poles.

Charles Ahearn and his company of ten nimble "speed burners," put the froth of laughter and the foam of fun upon the production with what has repeatedly been described as the "fastest act in the world." For two years Klaw & Erlanger starred Ahearn and his ludicrous bicycle-automobile act, and it comes now with Anna Held's "All-Star Variete Jubilee," funnier, fresher, clamorous with irrepressible fun, and the most outlandish, and surprising burlesque.

Anna Held herself, "the expectancy and rose" of this great ensemble, comes arrayed in all of the latest and most ingenious devices, creations and dreams of Paris—the fountain of fashion. Miss Held is almost slim now, more girlish and sprightly than ever—gowned in every glory of milliner and modiste and surrounded by a score of beautiful talented young women selected for the perfection of their physical endowments, and an accentuated note in the symphony of beauty which predominates the production.

Mason.

Los Angeles theater-goers will be given a real musical treat, beginning Monday night, it is promised, when Klaw & Erlanger's production, "The Count of Luxembourg," begins a week's engagement at the Mason Opera-house. The piece comes with a statement that the entire original production will be intact and that this latest success will prove one of the most enjoyable events of the season. Catchy music, bright comedy, and an entertaining story are said to form a part of the ingredients which go to make "The Count of Luxembourg" a success.

Frans Lehar, who wrote "The Merry Widow" and numerous other operas, is also responsible for the music of "The Count of Luxembourg." Glen MacDonough adapted it from the German. "The Staircase Waltz" is featured as one of the most enjoyable bits of melody and rhythm that has been seen on any stage in a long time. The entire Broadway chorus is carried intact.

In the American version, which was written by Glen MacDonough from the German of Willner and Bodansky, the lyrics of Adrian Ross and Basil Hood have been retained, so that the general story remains the same. The music is the most celebrated that Frans Lehar has ever written. Instead of a single waltz number dominating the whole, the huge orchestra plays almost incessantly from the rise of the first curtain until the fall of the last, and there are twenty musical numbers, of which fully half a dozen are of the haunting kind.

The story deals with the Bohemian experiences of the bankrupt Count of Luxembourg, whose chief proclivities are falling in love and spending every

CESSPOOLS OF THE DRAMA.

Walter Symonds' "Tiger" a Fresh Disgrace for the Stage. "The Necessary Evil" by Kennedy Less Mysterious.

BY HENRY CHRISTENSEN WARNACK

THEY call it art! The very opposite of reason, of logic, of common sense, of the things that make life worth living. We are going to clean out the cesspools of the drama, and we are going to do it before long, and we are going to do it in a way that will make the world of literature and art a better place than it is now.

Puts Faith in Chorus.

Silver Slipper, and, in fact, all down the line these girls stepped from the famous sextette into high stations in life, the only exception being Daisy Grech, whom Los Angeles may recall as having been out here with our own Zoo Barnett in "The Red Rose."

HIGH-CLASS NOW.

The revolution brought about by "Florodora" and its successors has raised the standard of chorus girls to such a height that now it is almost impossible to get a girl who could be called really good. Those who do meet the qualifications, who can dress like princesses, sing like Melba and dance like Genevieve, are as independent and as temperamental as prima donnas, and no amount of money will lure the majority of them from Broadway.

They have their own apartments and their own motors, draw from $50 to $100 per week and have enough friends and admirers to make their expenses almost nothing. Hence the announcement that "The Count of Luxembourg" is bringing to the Mason a genuine New York chorus that is so good that the success or failure of the production rests on the girls, is of more than ordinary interest, because in the last three years this has only occurred once, and that was when Anna Held brought the "Follies" to the Mason a year ago.

Errors in Society.

(Cleveland Leader.) Too many girls live away from home, too many must and too many choose to.

Too many children regard their parents as old-fashioned and ignorant of present ways—and in addition to the conceit of youth, there are conditions of our national life to account for that. Too many mothers, it may be, incline to idolize their daughters and find no fault in them or in their ways.

Mother's training may not carry the weight it used to carry, but that is hardly mother's fault. We suspect few if any mothers are indifferent to their children's upbringing and welfare, while many mothers are filled with secret grief and misgiving by the wilful indifference of their children to parental advice.

Lulu Glaser, fairy sprite of comic opera, who has fitted with glowing beauty and delight across the comic opera firmament for some years past in the high-priced houses, has been brought to leash for vaudeville, and will be headline in the new Orpheum bill opening Monday matinee. This should be extraordinary news to all who love this delightful little creature, and it certainly is a big feather in the Orpheum cap to have captured so fine a singer and comedienne when they are in such demand in other fields. Miss Glaser has been in a vehicle admirably fitted to her demands—a little play with music, "First Love," wherein she has the assistance of Tom D. Richards, himself an admirable foil for the brilliant little star.

Another decided acquisition to the new bill is Nellie Nichols, erstwhile a singer here some years back, now one of the most prized "single comedienne" in vaudeville. Nellie is full of fun, has a fine repertoire of songs and gowns, and knows how to "put on over" with the best. She woke up Los Angeles on her last Orpheum visit, and promises to keep it awake on this occasion.

Swor and Mack are students of real negro character, and in their delineations, especially of the "wench," are without compare. They will be seen in several of these character depictions, and all who delight in "cullid pussies" will be there to welcome them. Klutings' animals are different; in action because they do seem impossible things, and in personality because they are so real. Klutings' animals are different; in action because they do seem impossible things, and in personality because they are so real.

The success of "The Quaker Girl" readily justified Mr. Morocco's tremendous expenditure in the matter of costumes and scenic equipment for its presentation, while no cast of principals or chorists, in fact to equal that seen in "The Quaker Girl," has ever been gathered together for an offering at stock company prices.

It was thought that "Madam Sherry" would be a success, but when it was given at the Burbank, but there has been no comparison made with "The Quaker Girl," for it far exceeds anything Mr. Morocco has ever offered.

The cast for the third week remains the same as on the opening performance, Miss Pelay playing the chief role of Prudence, with Lillian Tucker, James Gleason, Reece Gardner, Harry Grand, Beatrice Nichols, Grace Travers, Thomas McLarnie, J. Burlington Rigg, James Corrigan and Harry Duffield in the principal roles, with a chorus of forty in the twenty-four fine musical numbers.

Empress.

As the two particularly attractive features of the new bill opening at the Empress Theater tomorrow afternoon, Sullivan & Conditine will offer the spectacular little operetta, "The Mission Garden," and Graham Moffat's famous company of Scotch players in his most successful one-act play, "The Concealed Bed."

"The Mission Garden" is one of the highest-class musical offerings that has been brought to the Empress stage on vaudeville. It requires a company of fourteen singers and the company to be seen here is the same as appeared in the Metropole when it was successful on the Metropolitan vaudeville stage no very long ago.

Headline the cast is no other than Nellie Brewster, a beautiful young singer, who has appeared with much success on the Empress stage on previous occasions, while her support is said to be of unusual worth. Scenicallly "The Mission Garden" is a miniature "Girl of the Golden West" and possesses all of the delightful atmosphere of the early days of California.

The appearance here of Graham Moffat's players should afford an attraction of more than ordinary interest, for this Scotch company is famous throughout the world. It was Mr. Graham that wrote "Bunny Pulls the Strings" which scored such a sensation in America, and his "Con-

Liebes Furs —Now at "The Unique"

These renowned furs, famous for over half a century, are shown in all their splendor at "The Unique."

Probably no line of merchandise offers such opportunities for deception as furs. Unscrupulous dealers contaminate the markets with cheap imitations, and endeavor to sell these imitations to the unsuspecting public at prices justifiable only by first-class goods. Fine furs, like fine jewels, should be chosen with the greatest of discrimination. Come to "The Unique" where you may be assured that every fur is exactly as represented.

Moderate Prices

H. Liebes & Co. of San Francisco are the largest manufacturers of high-grade furs in the United States. They not only create exclusive and pleasing designs, but they catch and cure the natural skins—and sell direct to the customer, thereby absolutely eliminating the tremendous profit of the middleman.

STYLE MADE HER FAMOUS.

Anna Held Knows How to Wear Clothes.

Dashing Costumes Win Her Public Homage.

She Insists on Best Support Obtainable.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.
No actress on the stage today has met with more uniform success than Anna Held, who will begin a week's engagement at the Majestic Theater tomorrow afternoon, and the reason can be stated in one word—style. There have been many handsome women on the stage than Anna Held, many better singers, many more graceful dancers, but who can one point to who has the clothes or knows how to wear them as well as Anna does?

When she first began her American career, rumor had it that she did not amount to much in her own country, and whether this was true or not, her early successes on this side of the water, in "The French Maid" and "Papa's Wife," established her on a pedestal from which she has never tumbled.

And always it is her gowns, her hats and her chic ways that made their impression. There was a spell when her "go-go" eyes" were the theme of the industrious press agent, but even these expressive orbs were relegated to the discard when it was found that Russian noble costs, diamond jewelry, and daring costumes filled both the newspapers and the playhouses with much less effort.

This holds true in the present engagement, for while we know all about what Anna is to wear, not one word as to what she does in the show has been hinted at, which only goes to show that even the press agent realizes that it is not so much what Anna does, as how Anna looks, which counts.

As a matter of fact, she really does some very daring and some very clever things. There is a little disrobing act, for instance, which is said to be very, very naughty, but as Miss Held puts it "How else can I show them all see pretty clothes I wear."

She really is bringing some very wonderful gowns, also some that are very outlandish. One is the very latest street suit from Paris, made with a new hoop skirt effect. For the life of me I don't know what you would call it, except a Pergola suit, for to me it resembles nothing so much as one of those quaint Chinese towers. Then she has some of those clinging vine creations, for which she is so famous, and an array of head dresses that is positively startling.

There are paradises, live birds, pom-poms and all sorts of the latest word in feminine attire. No one realizes better than Miss Held herself, that she must ever be a fashion show, or the public will be disappointed.

IS MODEST.
There is another factor which has played a large part in Anna Held's success, and that is modesty. Don't laugh—it is a fact, for while some of Anna Held's gowns and some of Anna Held's songs have been scandalous, she is one of the very few women on the stage who never was personally involved in a scandal. In private life she has always kept in the background, and on the stage she has never tried to be the whole show.

The beauty center of the Anna Held chorus never was called on to make certain "hat" girls were never better looking than his star. On the contrary, Miss Held has always insisted that the girls be the prettiest and most stylish obtainable, and the principals the best.

When Kitty Gordon was taken sick there was no more "Enchantress," because there was nothing to the show but the star. To the contrary, if Anna Held had stepped out of any show in which she has appeared, and her present "Variety" is no exception, though she would be sorely missed, the show itself and the company would in every case have been of sufficient merit to keep on the road, and win moderate if not startling success.

ACTIVE WOMEN.
Mrs. J. H. Ellis, a clergyman's wife, with her son, have embarked in a sixteen-foot canoe upon a voyage from Lake Superior to the Gulf of Mexico, by way of the Mississippi River.

Miss Doris Stevens is a brilliant young suffrage speaker, who has attracted more than usual attention. She is doing tremendous work for the cause of suffrage in Ohio. She is a college graduate, an attorney and fully conversant with the questions of woman's right to vote and her ability to do so intelligently.

Here are some of the head dresses Anna Held wears at the Majestic this week. No. 1 is a Paradise cascading from a diamond and pearl setting. No. 2 is a Dutch cap effect of braided pearl ropes. No. 3 is the new butterfly bow of tulle, and No. 4 is the 1914 Circassian collar. No. 5 shows the latest thing in "cuddle close" turbans.

Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the Speaker of the House, has declared that she does not intend to dance the tango, turkey trot or any of the new dances.

Mrs. Grace Roseberry has been appointed superintendent of the Kansas State School for the Blind.

Mrs. Mary Holland of Chicago is co-editor of the Detective, and is said to be one of the best criminologists in the world. It was she who introduced the system of finger-print identification in this country. She went to Scotland Yard and learned the new science, and then came home and taught it to the various police departments. She is now in Cincinnati attending the convention of police heads.

Mrs. Nora La Mance, national organizer for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who has just returned from Alaska, has placed an organization at Dawson, within 100 miles of the Arctic Circle. She established fourteen new organizations in Alaska and Yukon Territory, in which part of the world she traveled 7500 miles. Before she went up into the Northwest there were but two organizations there.

Miss Fern Hobbs, secretary to Gov. West of Oregon, is now in Washington, charged with the duty of presenting to the Oregon delegation at Washington a number of important State land matters with a request for legislation. This is the first time that the national capital has been visited by a woman in the capacity of a private secretary to a Governor.

Mrs. Charles F. Lees, Mayor of Oldham, Eng., is the first woman to hold such a position in the British empire. Mrs. Lees is much interested in the improvement of conditions of the people, and is exerting her power and ability to obtain playgrounds in the congested district. She has large interests in the cotton manufacturing industry, and was the first town counselor of Lancashire.

ERUPTION LIKE RINGWORM ON FACE

Covered with Watery Blisters, Itched and Burned Terribly. Little Rest at Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Entirely Cured.

Lock Box 25, Mantua, Pa.—"In the spring of 1911 our little daughter, age five years, had a breaking out on her face and part of her chest that we took for ringworm. It resembled a large ringworm, only it differed in that it was covered with watery blisters that itched and burned terribly, made worse by her scratching it. Then the blisters would break and let out a watery substance. She was very cross and fretful while she had it and had very little rest at night. When the eruption was at its worst the teacher of the school sent her home and would not allow her to attend until the disfigurement of her face was gone.

"We tried to kill it by applying—hydrophobic result. It would seem to get better and then broke out again. I then wrote and secured a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We washed the sore with the Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment and they have instant relief, as we bought some more. It gradually gave peace. We kept on using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in three or four months the child was entirely cured."

The Night Found
the shadows and the light alone I keep
I through the silent hours
other people sleep.
I say to myself
light-stick in my hand
for the prying hand
aching to be fanned.

bits of summer
rough
I look for lurking shadows and doors and watch and never sleep
glitters on my breast.

little I guard the dream
n dangers of the night
from tedious hours to long to see the light
that in a darkened room
and the curtains gleam
who wakes and thinks of waits to hear the light

Cosmopolitan.

FRANCE'S POPULAR POET ENTERTAINS IN A CAFE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Do what we will we cannot get on without royalty in France. We can't get on without kings, queens, princes and princesses. And if we cannot have royalty by blood we must have it by election.

Hence, we have, for instance: the king of camelots, or street vendors,
the queen of rhapsodists, the queen of the hailes or central markets, the queen of the carnival, the queen of the mid-Lent festivities, the queen of the roses, the queen of Montmartre,
the prince of the thinkers, and above
all, the prince of poets.

In America there are copper kings and steel kings and tobacco kings and oyster kings, corn kings and money
kings. All these pertain to business.

But the kings and queens and princes and princesses of France are mostly selected from those in some way connected with the liberal arts, or with aesthetics.

The action of elected royalty who is most in the public eye today, is Paul Fort, the prince of poets. When Fort was elected prince of poets, he called the compliment paid him a "pot of flowers." "But," said he, "it is a heavy pot of flowers, and one which closes many doors against me." It seems that by reason of the election,
the more conservative people, particularly those with an eye on the academy affected to see in Fort a poet chiefly of a carnival season. But he is far otherwise.

Paul Fort is, however, a typical child of the Latin quarter. His manners and customs: its tone and cos-

tures; its hard work and its vesperal amusements are all as the breath of his nostrils. And although he enters into the gaieties of the life around him he takes himself very seriously. But Victor Hugo and Francois Coppee were gay Latin-quarter youths in their day. Coppee was as wild as any young blood on the left bank when he headed the Parnassian School of Poets.

Since his election as prince of poets, Paul Fort holds royal receptions every Tuesday evening in the quarter. These receptions are held at the Brasserie des Lilas, one of the most noted haunts of the students.
It ranks with the Cafe d'Harcourt
when that was at the height of its fame, or with the old Cafe Frocoppe
in the Rue d'Anjouville Comedie in the days when the wild Gambetta made his fellow-students frantic with his enthusiastic oratory.

Paul Fort's receptions begin at 10 o'clock at night and go on until the gray dawn breaks. They are attended by budding poets and by the students of all the arts, from every clime and tongue. They are the most cosmopolitan receptions in the world.
I have seen thirty-two different nationalities represented in one evening.
And Paul Fort shakes hands with all comers. Americans say he can shake hands as cordially and as often as the President of the United States at a White House reception. He has an irresistible faculty of making his guests feel at home.

A bevy of pretty American girls recently attended one of the prince's receptions. They were shy and would not mix. They planted themselves away off in a remote corner of the cafe. They were evidently unaccustomed to sitting around, and their aloofness made them more conspicuous than if they had mingled with the merry crowd. Someone called the attention of the prince to the fact that a number of American beauty queens were at the reception and did not seem to be enjoying themselves.

"Go back and count how many there are in the bunch," he said to one of the chamberlains.

"Thirty," replied the latter.

Then the prince of poets sent thirty schmeckers of beer to the American girls amid uproarious laughter. He accompanied the beverage with the message that it was sent by the prince of a republic which acknowledges no princes except those of merit, to the queens of a republic which recognizes
no queens except those of beauty.
After which the American girls were
the heroines of the evening.

The only drinks served at these receptions are beer and lemonade, and each guest is permitted the privilege of purchasing his own drink. As to court dress, there is only one rule and it is that no one should appear there in regulation evening dress. There is, of course, a master of ceremonies,
or chief of the protocol, as he is called in diplomatic language. M. Mollard, who holds this office under President Poincare, has not a more exacting position than the master of ceremonies of the Prince of Poets. He must see that all comers enjoy themselves.
And he must introduce everybody, no matter how many hundreds or thousands there may be present. He must see to it that the orchestra plays
music to please every nationality present; so that you are at liberty to hear the "Marseillaise," "The Stars and Stripes Forever," "God Save the King," followed by "St. Patrick's Day," and a wild war whoop from Bulgaria.

Sometimes the Prince of Poets leads a dance and when he does his masks are such that no South American imitations can ever remotely
be compared with it.

I think the Prince was at his best recently when he gave an impromptu

address on poetry. He spoke seriously and took for his text the words
of Byron:
There's music in the sighing of the reed,
There's music in the rushing of the fall.
There's music in all things if men had ears."

And the Prince pointed out that every man had poetry in him. The gardener who cultivates the rose loves
it. He is a poet. The husbandman who harvests in his field is delighted with his crops. He is a poet. The shepherd who watches over his flock is a poet. The grave digger who digs up a skull and muses over it is not only a philosopher but a tragic poet. The brave man who runs the village smithy is a poet. And so Paul Fort ran through the whole of human comedy, pointing out that there is music in all men as well as in all things. And he wound up with a fourish, to the effect that there are poets besides those whose verses rhyme like Virgil's or whose lines
scan like Virgil's.

Maurice Maeterlinck, philosopher
and playwright, and husband of Georgette Leblanc, is authority for the statement that Paul Fort is the most complete, or all-round poet in France. By this he does not mean that our Latin Quarter Prince is the greatest, or the grandest or the first.
But Paul Fort plays upon all the strings of the lyre. He pictures the universe, the woods, the waters, the hamlets, the towns, the oceans, the heavens. He pours forth songs about legends, mythology and history. He even sings of souls. This universality is at once his glory and his misfortune.

HIS PROPENSITY
The precise word which Maeterlinck applies to him is that he is the most
"integral" of French poets today.
He writes poetry because he must;
and he writes nothing else. It is continually flowing from his pen. He has written of it some fifteen volumes.
If these were well edited they would yield four volumes of excellent poetry.
But the prince prints everything he pens, good and bad.

So rich is he in poetry that instead of stopping where he ought he breaks
loose afresh into boundless bouquets.
Thus his very opulence becomes fattigue. It is the evil of too much poetic endowment; the rebellion of treasures too copious and too powerful. Though he has excellent taste, the sense of measure was not among
the magnificent gifts put in his cradle.
This is what prevents him from being another La Fontaine. Here is the way
he responds to the call of his muse:
"My whole body is porous to the fresh winds of Spring."

And Maeterlinck, the Belgian, who did France the honor of becoming a Frenchman, concludes that the prince who holds eccentric weekly receptions
in the Latin Quarter is not only a real
but a good poet. Oliver Goldsmith, paying his way through Europe with his flute, was not more interesting.

What a Girl Ought to Know Turns Out to Be a Book on Cookery—A Publishing Brilliant Idea.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—A certain South
German publisher has got rich quickly by a perfectly easy device. In the newspapers he advertised a new work in the following terms: "What a Young Girl Ought to Know Before Marriage." Free by post, 60 cents.
In a month he sold 25,000 copies, and new editions followed in rapid succession.

At this stage his envious rivals got him prosecuted on the ground that he was competing unfairly with them by means of misrepresentations. At the hearing of the case the defendant offered evidence that in no single case had any complaint been received from all the thousands of purchasers of the work, and he added: "That I take it, is clear proof that what the purchasers expected to get was a cookery book." And, in fact, the defendant book which received so much notice was simply a collection of kitchen recipes.

The case was dismissed.

The uniform of gamekeepers on the preserves in Austria of the Emperor Franz Josef is shown in the accompanying photo. Green is the predominant color. The hat is invariably green, and of a shade not easy to become immensely popular with well-dressed American men. Yes, the hat has a feather.

METRIC SYSTEM IS EXTENDED.

More Countries About Ready to Adopt It.

Former Objections Are Now of Little Weight.

Plant Is Shown to Feel Effects of Ether.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The problem of internationalizing weights and measures was discussed at the 8th General Conference of the Metric System, which has just finished its sittings in Paris. Since the last conference four years ago some dozen important countries have adopted the compulsory use of the metric system. Among these are Denmark, China, Japan, the five republics of Central America, Bulgaria, Chili, Uruguay and Siam. Other countries seem inclined to follow, and in the opinion of M. C. E. Guillaume of the directorship of the French Bureau of Weights and Measures, "there is no doubt that the universal adoption of the metric system in its entirety is only a question of years."

Modern industrial methods have completely revolutionized the work of the metric conference. Whereas formerly it was chiefly concerned with the length unit, it has now widened its scope to include all the measures used in science and industry resulting from the discovery and application of electricity, wireless telegraphy and the general use in industry of delicate scientific processes of all descriptions. Samuel W. Stratton, director of the National Bureau of Standards at Washington and member of the International Committee of the metric conference, said: "The importance of the work of the conference lies not so much in the system of measurements adopted, but in the general agreement on what is meant by any given measurement. Unless this agreement is arrived at it is impossible to reproduce internationally or nationally, processes which have been once established. For instance, how accurately a given length unit is cut, it will vary with temperature, and it is of supreme importance in reproducing a delicate process, to know what a given length unit is to be used at zero degrees or at the ordinary working temperature."

It is also imperative that an agreement be reached as to exactly what is meant by a heat measurement as applied to different metals and other substances.

A third important work undertaken by the International Bureau is the establishment of scales for measuring heat and cold far above the ordinary temperatures, necessitated by the use of electricity and liquid air. It is of great importance to be able to measure as far as 170 degrees below and some 5000 degrees above zero, and these measurements doubtless soon will have to be greatly increased.

One American electrical firm has already asked me to establish an accurate means of measuring heat up to 5500 degrees."

PLANTS FEEL HEAT.

Can flowers feel pain? This is a question to which French physiologists are giving much attention at the present time.

M. L. Chassaigne believes that they can and do. His opinion is based on interesting experiments. Taking a mimosa plant, he exposed it to the action of heat. The leaves withered as if in pain. A simple mechanical effect, say the sceptics, a proof of sensibility, says M. Chassaigne, since it does not take place if the mimosa be anesthetized. If the same containing the mimosa is placed in a glass globe with a piece of cotton impregnated with chloroform or any other volatile anesthetic for half an hour, the foliage becomes wilted and the plant has all the appearances of being in a deep sleep. If it be now subjected to the action of heat it remains unaffected. The plant no longer suffers.

M. Chassaigne has repeated the same experiment with many different kinds of plants, but always with the same result. "It is needless to say," he says, "that plants do not suffer pain because they have no nerves. But modern physiologists are beginning to ask what exactly are nerves. Many of them hold that nerves are but the extension of protoplasm, modified and adapted to fulfill the required function. Hence the protoplasm of plants can perfectly well act as a rudimentary nervous system, and I am continuing my experiments with the object of establishing this beyond doubt."

POINCARÉ VISITS FABRE.

President Poincaré, returning from Spain, visited Henri Fabre at his home. The aged naturalist sat in his garden. The President, standing, called him beloved and great master, and said:

"You have given so passionate attention to the study of the humblest creatures that I think that in the smallest things you have shown us very great ones, and at every page of your work we feel a sensation of looking into the infinite."

Fabre was so moved that he could not reply. His nephew thanked the President for him.

M. Poincaré also visited Frederic Mistral, the famous poet of Provence, living at the village of Maillane. The poet read an address to the President, who, in replying, quoted Lamartine, who fifty years ago acclaimed Mistral as another Homer. Both Mistral and his wife wept, and when the President finished, Mistral threw himself into M. Poincaré's arms and embraced him.

WILL TEST MOTORS.

M. Clementel, the French Minister of Agriculture, is decided to institute a monster agricultural competition lasting three years, which is to determine the merits of the various French agricultural machines run by steam, oil or other engine.

The competition will take place at the Agricultural School at Grignon and will be judged by a jury of agricultural experts from the French agricultural societies. A detailed report will be drawn up from the point of view of economy, as well as results, which is likely to give impetus to the movement in favor of motor agriculture in France. The use of motor machines is especially marked in the neighborhood of Meaux and Soissons, where fourteen sections of the district are using motor machines of the co-operative system.

Mysteries.

DID CHRISTABEL YIELD TO AMOR?

LONDON, PAPER IS UNKNOWN ABOUT MISS PANKHURST.

The "Mail" suggests that the Continued Absence of the Suffragette Leader in Paris Is Due to the Alarming Fact that She Now Has a Husband.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A tremendous bombshell has just been thrown into the ranks of the militant suffragettes by the suggestion of the London Mail that their fair leader, the St. Christabel of their early years, is in reality, a married woman.

This journal puts the facts discreetly, but to those who have marvelled at Christabel's flight to Paris, her steady refusal to return, her stand sacrifice of the life and health of her mother and younger sister to the cause, the mystery of her attitude seems to have been solved like magic by this daring speculation.

"Christabel is married," the Mail now whispers to each other, and there is secret weeping heard at night in the homes of the leaders of the movement, for the glory of the suffrage movement has departed with the arrival of a man thing—a more husband. And the Mail says the photographs that put the match to the fire:

"Is Christabel Pankhurst married? That is what a lot of people are wondering, and not a few beginning to suspect. When a well-known young lady suddenly vanishes to regions unknown, and is not heard of for months, and then smilingly turns up again in Paris and announces her intention of making that gay city her business headquarters for the future, the man and woman in the street may well be accused for asking why? It cannot be dread of jail that makes Christabel so coy of returning to her native shores—has she not publicly declared over and over again that from bars and Holloway jail have no terrors for her? The militant suffragette, like love, laughs at locksmiths."

"What is the reason, then? Is it public opinion Christabel is afraid of? Does she shrink from standing at the bar of all the other militant opinions and being found guilty without any extenuating circumstances? Guilty of what? Oh, hear you ask. Guilty of committing the heinous act of matrimony, of course. Guilty, if you please, of marrying a man? What worse horror could Christabel be capable of in the eyes of all other unattached women than this? For what is man? In the literature and language of the suffragettes he shrinks to truly wormlike proportions. A more doted of dust, an useless for all useful purposes as an empty tumbler tin."

"Who would want to marry a man when for all time one can live real free and everything found as a militant leader? Who would want to be led by the nose by a silly man when the ear instead can lead a whole regiment of hysterical women by the same useful member? Certainly, no sane woman would forfeit these substantial advantages for the base joys of a man's arms. But, then, love is a madness, and Christabel may have found the ranks of all the rest of the happy married women who love."

"Has she? Is that the reason Christabel finds it more expedient to transact her business in Paris away from the eagle eyes of her guardian associates? I have just seen a recent photograph of her taken in Desborough. It represents a charmingly tired, matronly-looking, supremely self-satisfied young person. Desborough, of course, as a place of residence is infinitely superior to Holloway, but then, as I said before, suffragettes disdain jail—at the worst they can only lock upon it as a sort of half-way house to breakfast at a vegetarian restaurant. No, the explanation of Christabel's prolonged absence has yet to be given."

"We are not infallible, we do not pretend to know actually. We only hazard this question. We have heard a lot about the three massive desks in Miss Pankhurst's new Paris flat but can it be that besides the three desks that harbor a crack?"

True Love Can't Run Smooth.

[Lippincott's:] The course of true love never did run smooth. It is a truism. The single certain line runs on of true love, it is that it shall not run smooth. For such is the condition of human beings.

When people set out to be friendly and congenial they can succeed by keeping up a gentle hostility. Consider the average evening walk. How tiresome it is until someone starts an argument or a game of cards is proposed. That accounts for the popularity of games. They furnish a sham and innocuous hostility without which society with one's fellows is deadly. Men and women can be happy together for days at a time if they are contending at golf, at tennis, at cards or at other games.

People who can sit around smoking rooms or verandas for long great lengths of time and chat agreeably are degenerate. They have lost their spirit and might as well be dead.

ENGLISH ROYAL COUPLE LOOKING FOR THE STORK.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Intimate circles of the royal family are agitated over the news that there will be an addition to the family of King George and Queen Mary. The interesting event is expected in the latter part of February. This explains why the Queen has been keeping in the background at recent functions, notably the Commonwealth wedding. The royal doctors frequent visits first gave inkling of the expected event. It is said the Queen is overjoyed. Certainly a birth to reigning sovereigns would be an occasion of great rejoicing to Britons.

Miss Clark Hostess.
Miss Clara Louise Cooke entertained a number of her young friends
recently at her home, No. 215 Manhattan place. The evening was passed in singing and dancing until a late hour, when a bonfire was built in the back yard and the evening concluded with marshmallows. The fun was shared by Miss Mabel Moore,
Miss Florence Froelich, Otto Halmer, Douglas Palmer and Lorin Doulan.

Introducing—

Mr. Arthur B. Corr

Furniture Specialist—

Mr. Arthur B. Corr, who will be recognized in the above photograph by thousands of people whom he has aided in the selection of consistent home furnishings, commenced his career in the furniture business with L. Harbach, manufacturer and dealer in fine furniture, Des Moines, Iowa. Acquiring himself thoroughly with every detail of the furniture trade during his several years' connection with this firm, he finally left them as a salesman to accept a position with Chase & West, retailers of home furnishings in the same city.

The call of the West tempted Mr. Corr to connect himself with the Buck Store and Range Company as traveling representative in the western territory, from which position he came to us. His intimate knowledge of fine furniture, his years of experience and good judgment combine to make Mr. Corr one of our most valued representatives.

ONE of the most novel Halloween parties of the week was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Harker, Ramona, when a large company of their friends enjoyed a masquerade party. Over a huge fire were there were roasting "wiensers" and steaming coffee, and the guests were also served with pumpkin pie, rolls and fruit by the ghosts. During the greetings punch was served, after which the business and program for the afternoon were taken up. The chairman of the Social Committee announced the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Goudge to the members of the club to an evening at home with them at No. 212 North Vine street, on November 14. The afternoon program in its several features was then given: "Current Events," by the club; "A History of the Hebrews," Mrs. G. W. Cameron, Miss Shaffer and Mrs. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Richardson, West Alhambra, have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Richardson of Detroit, Mich., who arrived at their home on Wednesday and will remain for a week or two. Today they are enjoying a family reunion, as all the other members live in Southern California.

LITERATURE STEPS FORWARD.

Here is only a touch taken from the records of this children at play. "We are going to take up a great soda fountain, the like of which had never been seen."

"It's the kind of a fountain," Margaret Amelia Rodman explained, "that angels used to drink at. That kind!"

"We classified it instantly."

"Now," she went on, "our damsel is getting this thing, 'or the other, and she is mourning. If the king knew it he wouldn't leave us do it, because he'd think it's beneath our dignity. But don't know what to do. I'll tell you. I'll tell you. The king's household is inside the palace, and us damsels have to be secret, getting up our preparations. Now we must divide up the re-sponsibility."

her absorption in her household, she finds time at her home at Hatfield, Hertfordshire, Eng., to write many novels. "A Dream of Blue Roses" is her latest and most charming—as sunshiny as Mrs. Barclay herself.

THE SONG OF THE FLUME.

BY ANNA M. FITCH.

(Deceased.)

The following verses were said by William Cullen Bryant to be among the best produced by any California writer:

Awake, awake! for my track is red,
With the glow of the coming day;
And with tinkling tread, from my dusky bed,
I haste o'er the hills away,
Up from the valley, up from the plain,
Up from the river's side,
For I come with a gush, and a torrent's rush,
And there's wealth in my swelling tide.

I am fed by the melting rills that start
Where the sparkling snow-peaks gleam,
My voice is free, and with fiercest gleam,
I leap in the sun's broad beam
Tho' torn from the channels deep and old,
I have worn through the craggy hill,
Yet I flow in pride, as my waters glide,
And there's mirth in my music still.

I sought the shore of the sounding sea,
From the far Sierra's height,
With a starry breast, and a snow-capped crest,
I foamed in a path of light;
But they bore me thence in a winding way,
They've fettered me like a slave,
And as of old were exchanged for gold,
So they barter my soil-stained wave.

Thro' the deep tunnel, down the dark shaft,
Search for the shining ore;
Hail it away to the light of day,
Which it never has seen before,
Spade and shovel, mattock and pick,
Try them with eager haste;
For my golden shower is sold by the hour,
And the drops are too dear to waste.

Lift me aloft to the mountain's brow,
Patron the deep "blue vein,"
And I'll lift the soil for the shining ore,
As I sink to the valley again,
The swell of my swarthy breast shall beat Pebble and rock away,
Though they brave my strength, they shall yield at length,
But the glittering gold shall stay.

Mine is no stern and narrow march,
No stormy tramp and drum,
No banners gleam in my darkened stream,
As with conquering step I come;
But I touch the tributary earth,
Till it owns a monarch's sway,
And with eager hand, from a conquered land,
I bear its wealth away.

Awake, awake! there are loving hearts,
In the lands you've left afar;
There are tearful eyes in the homes you pass,
As they gaze on the western star;
Then up from the valley, up from the hill,
Up from the river's side,
For I come with a gush, and a torrent's rush,
And there's wealth in my swelling tide.

To these ancient yet appropriate verses a local poet adds the following lines, spoken by the Owens River aqueduct:

"Los Angeles—heart's delight; city so great and bright;
Fountains, my roadshow forever;
Van Nuys and Glendale, I bid you all hail,
No divorce shall our marriage disavow,
I bring good health, I bring much wealth,
To each welcoming son and daughter,
There'll be nothing so good for their youthful blood,
As my pure, cold, sparkling water."

BRIGHT YOUTHS.

Four hundred and seventy-five thousand ferns have been picked in Jamaica, Vt., by two boys, Charles Cooley and Floyd Clark, and have been shipped to various large cities, netting the boys more than $250.

Adolph Gibbard of Showhegan, Me., has trained two plump and happy raccoons which came into his possession four months ago so that they play around like kittens and drink milk from a bottle.

Two Columbus newboys, Jess Weber and Karl Branner, both 21 years old, are planning to start on a tour of the world, on which they will pay their expenses by selling newspapers in the large cities through which they pass.

Only 10 years of age, Daniel Altes Bader, son of Chief of Police Bader of Birmingham, Ala., is a clever amateur detective. He has caused the arrest of all sorts of offenders, mostly thieves of various sorts, leading to the recovery of not less than $10,000 worth of stolen goods. His favorite bicycle thieves and shoplifters have come to grief through him. He is also the terror of blind tigers.

Miss Myrtle Wright, 12 years old, swam the mile and a quarter across the Golden Gate, which hitherto had not been done by a child swimmer. Because of treacherous cross currents and eddies, combined with the icy cold of the water, many expert swimmers have failed to negotiate the distance. Miss Wright showed wonderful strength and skill, and it is believed that her record will stand for a long time.

Discarding her dolls and toys and completely ignoring her chickens, Gatha, 24-year-old daughter of Frank Dart of Alamosa, Mich., devotes her attention to the cows and her principal amusement or occupation is helping to milk them. Every morning when her father and the hired hands gather up the buckets in preparation for milking, Gatha picks out her milk, selects "Daisy," her favorite cow, and does her share of the labor. The child, while appearing to enjoy the occupation, nevertheless considers it a solemn duty, and "Daisy" receives her attention regularly.
